SOCIALISM PUTS IT ON THE BLINK

Savoy Hotel Hits the Rocks and Affairs Are to Be Aired in Court.

That business and Socialism don't mix, is a fair deduction from litigation now pending in the district court. Also a hotelkeeper who talks too much politics to his guests soon outlives his usefulness. R. V. Hanson, J. G. and C. J. Potts, John J. Thueson and F. B. Scott, mostly Socialists, set this out in an answer filed Thursday to an action commenced by a comrade of that party, Robert E. Leggett. Leggett sued to recover $500 which he paid for stock in the Savoy Hotel company under alleged fraudulent representations.

In April of last year the parties organized the company and took over the Savoy Hotel building on East First South, which they turned into the Savoy hotel. Leggett says he took a thousand shares at a dollar each on the representation by Hanson, acting as agent for the others, that the property was free from debt and the business worth $10,000. He who made manager and afterwards says he found that there was a mortgage on the furniture of $200 and that the business was not worth over $100. Few guests arrived, he said, and the hotel did not pay. Then he sued for his money back.

The other parties declare that Leggett bought his stock after his attorney, R. E. Wilson, had investigated and advised the purchase and they deny that Hanson acted as agent. They say, too, that Leggett knew of the mortgage at the time he bought the stock.

Under Leggett's management the hotel was a Socialist headquarters at all hours. The parties sued saying that Leggett's politics, except that there was too much doing in that line, and that in his endeavor to make converts he turned away guests and ruined the business. That the value of the business has depreciated, they declare, is due to his management of the hotel and they ask for judgment against Leggett for $500 as damages for their loss through his incompetence.

Leggett was twice a candidate at the elections last fall, his name appearing on the state ticket as candidate for presidential elector, and on the county ticket for the state legislature. Scott, Thueson and Hanson were also on the ticket, the first named running for county clerk.

Leggett is general manager of the company; J. G. Potts, treasurer and F. B. Scott, secretary.

Scott has filed a separate answer stating that his only interest in the company consists of 500 shares for drawing up the articles of incorporation and for legal services.

IMPROVEMENTS ORDERED.

Roads in Salt Lake County to Become Excellent Drives.

Willard Snow, road supervisor of Salt Lake county, has instructed his district road builders to put in first-class condition, immediately, the road leading from the Redwood road up to Garfield, filling in all low places. They will thoroughly overhaul the Utah Copper highway which has been washed considerably by the spring storms.

As soon as the high waters have subsided the road on State street between Twelfth and Thirteenth South will be put into repair. In the meantime motorists have been asked to proceed up Twelfth South as far as Third East and then turn south to Thirteenth and back on to State or else to come along to Seventh East and then south to Fourteenth, which is a very fine road.

MAKES IMPORTANT RULING

Judge Marshall Holds That Defendant Is Not Liable to Costs Prior to Indictment.

Judge John A. Marshall of the federal court handed down a decision yesterday morning in which he held that costs and expenses incurred prior to indictment could not be taxed against the defendant. The decision grew out of an item amounting to $22.38, United States marshal's fees and expenses incurred in securing witnesses in the case of the United States against the Utah Fuel company.

The grand jury brought indictments against the Utah Fuel company and when the case was tried the defendants were found guilty. Fines were assessed against the fuel company and also costs of the court. Indictments charging the expense of the marshal prior to indictment was counted in, but the defendant objected and appealed to Judge Marshall for decision. He held that the expense could not be charged to the Utah Fuel company and the amount was released.
